

Doctor, your patient feels better... when they're CONNECTED.

Patients are moving ahead to manage health in their own ways via personal health information technology. Consumers have more positive impressions of doctors who use EHRs, and these people also believe that EHRs can improve communication with physicians, enable better coordination of care and give them more confidence in their health care.

Optum has been helping IPA providers move to electronic records since 2008. It's time we connect you so you can connect with your patients.
